MILITARY RIFLE SHOOTING IN PENNSYLVANIA

The scores and illustrations published in this issue will be of interest to every guardsman. They show the best marksmen in the several organizations at their work, and give opportunities for comparison within and without this State. Enough of past records in the several matches is added to induce other comparisons as well.

Ever since the re-organization of the Guard after the riots of 1877, Pennsylvania has been distinguished for the attention bestowed upon the practical and substantial parts of military training, at the expense of those which attract the eye or flatter the vanity. Of course the obvious truth that a soldier is worthless who does not understand how to use his weapon was not overlooked, and our Guard quickly developed expert marksmen who ranked with the best in other States and the Army and Navy. In 1887 the State range at Mt. Gretna was opened, and the annual contests among the first class teams of all the State organizations were begun. As facilities were furnished by the establishment of local ranges, the percentage of sharpshooters and qualified marksmen increased, until, it is safe to say, no State had more or better marksmen than Pennsylvania. But the time came when we permitted New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and the District of Columbia to steal a march upon us. It was well understood that the adoption of the Krag-Jorgensen rifle by the United States Army would compel the abandonment of the Springfield rifle by the National Guard. But it required the Spanish-American War to convince the country in general, and Congress in particular, that this step should not be delayed. In the meantime it is not material which of the states first succeeded in placing the Krag-Jorgensen rifle in the hands of those of its expert marksmen who were accustomed to attend the annual competitions at Sea Girt; nor does it matter what difficulties or prejudices were overcome before this was accomplished. One of the reasons why Pennsylvania was left behind temporarily in the march of progress is that, for several years prior to 1901, she sent no teams to the Sea Girt matches. Her marksmen, no longer brought into competition with the best in the country, complacently rested upon the laurels already won with the old black powder Springfield. In 1901, however, and again this year, she sent a State team to Sea Girt to represent her in the Hilton Trophy and Interstate Military Matches, a regimental team for the Regimental Match and a cavalry team for the Carbine Match. In both years her marksmen shot under a handicap which made success impossible, and nevertheless, in the opinion of those who observed them, and by comparison with previous standards, did very creditable work. In 1901 we had the temerity to shoot the Springfield against the Krag, and, in 1902, we used the Krag, after six weeks' practice, in competition with the best shots in the country who had been studying it for several years. Of course any other result than the scores published herein would have been marvelous. By the time the competitions of 1903 occur our skilled marksmen will have been using this fine weapon for a year. It is safe to predict that Pennsylvania will regain the lost ground, and it is probable that an average but little short of 90 at the Mt. Gretna matches will be required to earn a place on the State Team.

The reason why no other results could have been anticipated are not difficult to comprehend. The Krag-Jorgensen rifle is a modern high power gun of small calibre and using smokeless powder, types of which were adopted long since in the progressive military countries of Europe. The best talent which our country affords is being devoted to efforts to improve both the national arm itself and the ammunition to be used in it. The marksmen who have tried both understand that the Krag bears the same relation to the Springfield that a Cremona violin does to a country fiddle. Most fortunately for military education the people at large are beginning to appreciate this truth. A bill is pending in Congress, backed by powerful support, which promises to result in equipping the whole National Guard with the Krag. President Roosevelt happens to have had that manly training which has made him familiar with the use of weapons, and in a recent speech made on a visit to the Sea Girt range he gave unqualified support to the new movement. More recently at Indianapolis he said: "Gentlemen, we are a great and a rich people, and I feel thoroughly ashamed every time I see a National Guardsman with a black powder musket. It would be a cruel shame to send men armed with such inferior weapons against a foe of at all equal capacity armed with better weapons. We need the good weapons. After you have got it, remember it is the man that counts more than the weapon in the long run. A good man with a bad weapon will be beaten by another good man with a good weapon. But if you have the best rifle in existence and you have not the right stuff in you, you will be beaten by a good man with a club."

There are many others, however, ignorant of the combination of skill, experience, force of character and regularity of life required to make an expert shot, and even qualified marksmen in our Guard do not understand the practice and study necessary to the mastery of a new weapon. The Phipps' sight of the Krag is much like the Buffington sight of the Springfield, but the mechanical construction of the Phipps' sight practically compels the use of the peep at the mid-ranges, and to avoid changing from one to the other has led to the use of the peep throughout. Consequently, the first lesson which many of our experts who disliked the peep had to learn was to abandon the open sight. Again, while all marksmen know that by adjusting the sliding leaf on the rear sight the corrections for elevation are obtained, and that the proper allowance for windage and drift is made by swinging the rear sight from side to side the proper number of points of windage, comparatively few of them pretend to rely on their own judgment in these matters. It is one thing to adjust one's sights even at the firing point of a known distance, then lie down and put up a good score, and quite another to depend upon an instructor or coach for all but the sighting and holding. But most important of all, it is impossible to do first class shooting unless the marksman can tell the zero of his rifle. This means that before firing a shot at any range he must be able to state what mechanical adjustment of the sights for windage and elevation would carry the bullet to the center of the bulls-eye if the light conditions were perfect and not a breath of air was stirring. The difficulties in the way of attaining this knowledge are very great. No two guns are mechanically alike, and even two men using the same piece often require a different adjustment of sights. Even an expert beginning the study of the zero of a new gun confronts obstacles which nothing but long practice with that particular weapon will overcome. It is entirely possible to put up an excellent score with sights incorrectly adjusted to the prevailing conditions of wind and light. This is because exceptionally steady holding forces the bullet near to the center of the target in spite of the miscalculation. But the error of adjustment appears instantly when a slight wobble occurs and the bullet is thrown not merely out of the bulls-eye and into the four ring, as it should have been with correct sights, but to the outer edge of the target or off of it entirely. Moreover, the opportunities for errors of judgment as to all the factors which enter into rifle shooting at mid or long range are endless. Correct sighting, steady holding, the force and direction of the wind, the effect of the light and atmosphere upon the ability to see clearly are only some of the matters which the marksmen must take into account. It is said, for example, that the American Team lost the recent Palma Trophy Match to the British Team in Canada because the sun which was hidden by clouds at the 800 and 1000 yards stages suddenly broke through in the midst of the 900 yards stage and produced conditions of light which baffled completely the American coaches and marksmen on a new range and in an unfamiliar atmosphere. The statement is borne out by the fact that the American Team led by twenty points at 800 yards and tied the British team at 1000. Evidently, therefore, before any judgment can be passed intelligently as to what adjustment of sights the conditions require, the riflemen must be able to start with a correct zero, which, in the rarest instances only, is that marked on the sights themselves. Experts learn this zero by preserving careful records of the conditions existing when every shot is fired, and the correct solution of this one problem often requires months and even years of practice. Without mentioning many other matters involved in a radical change of weapons and ammunition, enough has been said to show why such difficulties could not have been mastered in the practice which our guardsmen could obtain in a few weeks' time.

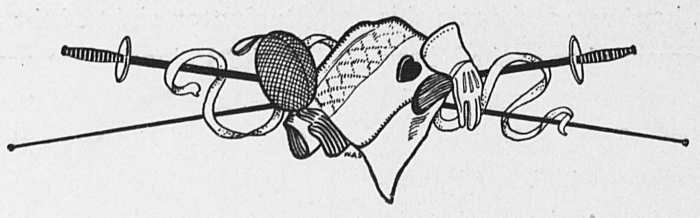
On the other hand the possibilities of the new weapon when its peculiarities have been learned offer important suggestions for the future of rifle shooting. An examination of the scores and calculation of the averages of the leading teams in the Sea Girt matches prove that the experts in the use of the Krag have attained a degree of skill at the mid-ranges that is almost perfection. One of the Pennsylvania spotters at Sea Girt declared that the entire ten shots of a member of the New York team shooting at 500 yards in one of the matches could have been covered by his hand, and were grouped in the upper left-hand corner of the bulls-eye. In the Hilton Trophy Match, Private Leizear, of the Sixth Pennsylvania Regiment, and a New Jersey guardsman as well, made 101 out of a possible 105. The average scores of the entire New York team, it will be noticed, is 94.75 per man. It is easy to see how all this means that the expert matches of the future will be at the long ranges. The military riflemen of England, Canada and the European countries, of late years have given most attention to these distances, and as usual, in military matters, have set an example which we must follow. The Sea Girt authorities have awakened to this fact, which will be more apparent in the arrangement of matches for the meeting of 1903, and our active little neighbor, New Jersey, now requires a long range score in the annual qualifications of her guardsmen. It will be well for us candidly to admit that the first task before our first class marksmen is to learn our new guns, and the next is to make provision for practicing at the long ranges. We cannot drop out of competitions in the most essential of all soldierly accomplishments. Nor can we bar the march of progress. We certainly must resume the position of leaders which past records gave us, and there appears to be no room for two opinions as to what is necessary to accomplish this result.



Rifle Matches at Mount Gretna and Sea Girt, Season 1902

THE annual rifle, carbine and revolver competitions for 1902, were held on the State rifle range at Mt. Gretna, Pa., beginning August 18th and continuing the remainder of the week. The United States magazine rifle and carbine were used by the teams for the first time and, considering the fact that the arms were only issued about six weeks prior to the matches, the results were all that could have been expected. When the men have had the new arm long enough to become thoroughly acquainted with it the results will be generally better. The State team, however, found itself seriously handicapped at Sea Girt when it came into competition with teams which have had the Krag for several years. The Krag is not as easy to learn as the old Springfield and a marksman to get the best results must know his piece thoroughly. Pennsylvania has the material for the best quality of work and when her men are familiar with the new pieces she will resume her old place in marksmanship.

The State rifle matches developed much interest and several of the matches belonged to anybody until the last shot was fired. The Regimental Match was won by the Thirteenth Regiment, which won from the Sixth Regiment only on a tie. Lieut. Bergstresser, Eighth Regiment, won the Inspector of Rifle Practice match by a single point from Lieut. Foulke, of the Second Regiment. Sergeant Whittaker of the Third Regiment, won the All Comers match from Musician Moore, of the Thirteenth Regiment, on a tie. Sergeant Merrill, of the First Troop, won the Expert Revolver match by a single point and captured the Enlisted Men's Revolver Match from Corporal Reeves, of the Second Troop, on a tie.

The Brigade Match was won by the First Brigade easily.

The Skirmish Cup was captured by the Ninth Regiment. This cup has been passed around in the hands of more regiments than anything the State has offered.

The Second Troop won the Cavalry Match and the First Troop again captured the Cavalry Skirmish Cup.

The 1000 yard match was won by the First Brigade.

The following are the complete scores of the matches:

to this lead at 500 yards, and should have won by a fair margin, but at 600 yards made only 97, while the Thirteenth Regiment made 102 at this range. The Sixth Regiment's score was: 122-120-97—339. The First Regiment ranked third with 111-120-102—333.

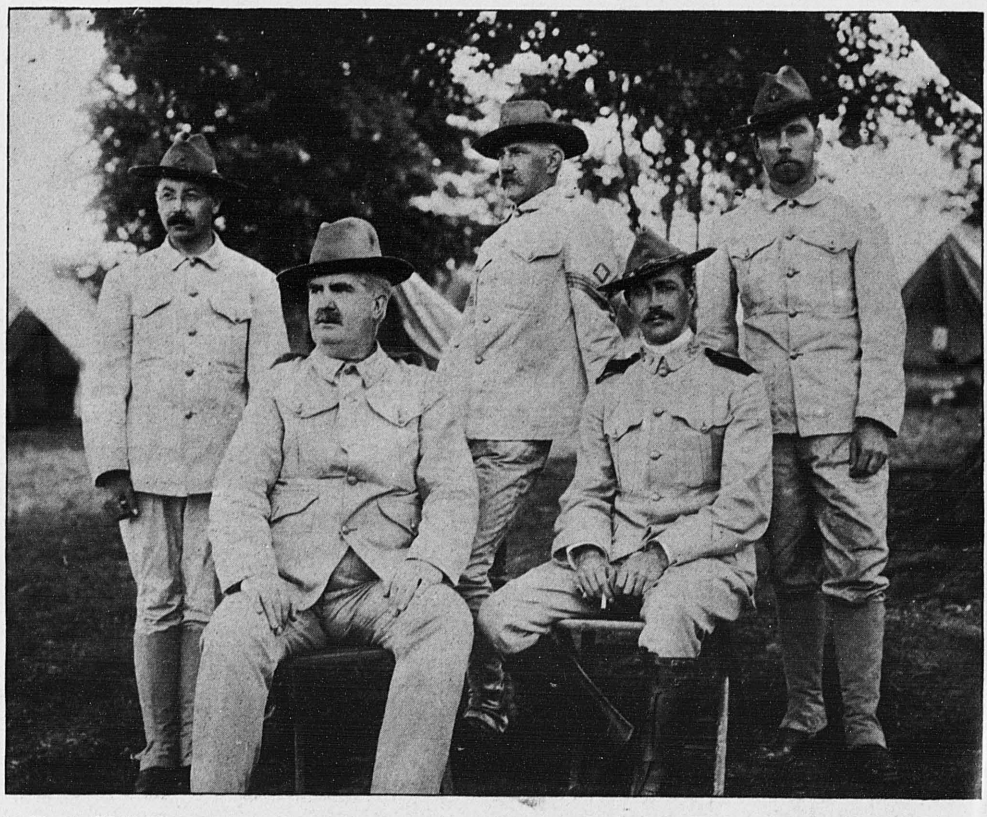
Cavalry Match.—The Cavalry Match resulted in a creditable victory for the Second Troop P. C. C., which has developed gradually a team of very promising marksmen who will compel the older teams to look to their laurels. The result was due to the First Troop's error in shooting that reliable marksman and skirmisher, Trumpeter Singer, without preliminary practice at Mount Gretna in the place of its reserve, who had taken part in the practices of August 19th. Trumpeter Singer began at 600 yards with four misses, and the Second Troop, which left 500 yards with the small margin of a seven point lead, won the match by seventeen points. The scores were:

Second Troop P. C. C.	117	120	94—331
First Troop P. C. C.	113	117	87—317
Governor's Troop	104	115	80—299
Sheridan Troop	109	105	83—297

History of the Cavalry Match.—The Mount Gretna Rifle Range was established in 1887, and in 1888 the First Troop Philadelphia City Cavalry, sent the only cavalry team to participate in the State matches. In that year it took sixth place in the Division in the Regimental Match with a score of 314.



TEAM, FIRST TROOP PHILA. CITY CAVALRY AND QUARTERMASTER HUGH CRAIG, JR., MT. GRETNA, 1902

In 1889 all three of the cavalry troops were represented by teams, whose respective positions in the Division and their scores in this match were as follows:

6	First Troop P. C. C	115	116	110—341
18	Governor's Troop	99	87	79—265
19	Sheridan Troop	96	95	72—263

In 1890 cavalry teams competed in the Regimental Match, winning the following places in the Division:

12	First Troop P. C. C.	106	110	101—317
14	Sheridan Troop	106	103	95—304
20	Governor's Troop	90	81	79—250

In the State matches of the following years the three cavalry troops were not represented by separate teams but by a cavalry team selected from the three. It competed in this match with the following scores:

1891	12	Cavalry Team,	107	103	88—298
1892	12	Cavalry Team	105	97	92—294
1893	8	Cavalry Team	105	106	107—312
1894	8	Cavalry Team	111	109	110—330
1895	5	Cavalry Team	108	114	95—317

In 1896 all of the State cavalry having been equipped with Springfield Carbines, a separate trophy called the Cavalry Cup was offered to be won by the highest score made by a cavalry team in this match. The first cup was won in three successive contests by the First Troop P. C. C. and became their property in 1900. The scores in 1896 were as follows:

7	First Troop P. C. C.	114	111	104—329
17	Sheridan Troop	100	93	65—258
18	Governor's Troop	104	77	63—244

From 1897 to 1901 inclusive the cavalry teams dropped out of this match at the 600 yards stage, and fired ten shots each at 200 and 500 yards with the following result:

1897	First Troop P. C. C.	161	146—307
	Sheridan Troop	152	138—290

ALL-COMERS MATCH

Conditions: Open to all members of teams to shoot ten rounds each at 200 and 500 yards without sighting shots.

Won by Sergeant Whittaker, Third Regiment, with a score of 41 at 200 yards and 50, out of a possible 50, at 500 yards, total 91, an exceptional and very creditable performance. Musician Moore, Thirteenth Regiment, made the same total with 44 at 200 yards and 47 at 500 yards, but lost by reason of the rule preferring the highest score at the longest range in case of a tie. The score of Private Leizear, Sixth Regiment, in this match, is worthy of mention since it illustrates how constantly the successful marksman must be on his guard against a careless shot. Private Leizear went up from 200 yards with 46, the highest total made at that range by any contestant. Of his first nine shots at 500 yards only two were out of the bulls-eye and they were centers. But with 89 to his credit and one shot to fire he made a bulls-eye on an adjoining target and scored a miss.

MAJOR W. S. McLAIN

Major W. S. McLain, Commissary of the Second Brigade, is a veteran of two wars and one of the few active officers in the Guard to-day who hold that distinction. He was born in Indiana, Pennsylvania, November 6, 1847. At the outbreak of the Civil War, when the Governor of Pennsylvania called for reserves, he and his father, John F. McLain, enlisted as Musicians in Company "B," Eleventh Pennsylvania Reserves. They were encamped on the Allegheny river, and when the Governor finally tendered to the President of the United States the services of the entire Reserve, the offer was accepted, and they were mustered into the United States service. At this time Major McLain was but thirteen years and six months of age, and he is, therefore, one of the youngest veterans of the Civil strife. During the camp at Tenley Town, Washington Heights, he refused to return home. When he did return to Indiana he organized a drum corps, and with it attended meetings in Indiana and Jefferson counties, where Companies "A," "F" and "K" were organized and mustered into the 105th Regiment, better known as the "Wild Cats." He served with this regiment during the Peninsular Campaign, and with General Polk to the Second Bull Run. In this campaign he rendered gallant service in carrying information to General Polk of Jackson's being in his rear. Owing to his youth, the officers of the regiment headed a petition to the Secretary of War, requesting his discharge, which paper he afterward handed in person to the Secretary. After the engagement of Second Bull Run, an order was issued for his discharge. He immediately enlisted in the 135th Regiment, serving the unexpired time and was mustered out with the regiment. He subsequently enlisted in Company "F," Fifty-fifth Regiment, commanded by Colonel Richard White, and served with that command until the close of the war, being mustered out Sept. 5, 1865.

Being a born soldier he immediately connected himself with the National Guard of Pennsylvania and during the Spanish-American War, he with his three sons, Captain John, Lieutenant Ray and Sergeant William McLain, responded. There being no place for staff officers on the General Staff, he was tendered and accepted the position of Quartermaster of the Fourteenth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry. At the organization of the Second Army Corps, he was detailed as Brigade Quartermaster of the Second Brigade, First Division, Second Corps, serving on the staffs of General Oats, of Alabama; Ames, of Massachusetts, and Waties, of Texas. He was mustered out February 1, 1899, at Charleston, S. C.

During the many years of his connection with the Guard he was captain and commissary, Thirteenth Regiment Infantry, August 1, 1876; discharged by reason of disbanding of the regiment. First lieutenant Company E, Fourteenth Regiment Infantry, August 7, 1888; quartermaster, June 18, 1891; reappointed, March 24, 1893, and September 8, 1894; brigade commissary Second Brigade, July 9, 1896; reappointed, January 26, 1897; appointed assistant adjutant general, Second Brigade, August 28, 1899.

In civil life he is the general manager of the American Safe and Lock Company, Pittsburg, Pa.

MAJOR D. S. B. CHEW

Major D. S. B. Chew, Ordnance Officer and Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice First Brigade, is an enthusiast on rifle practice and is untiring in his efforts to increase the interest in his department. He has been instrumental in securing from prominent citizens interested in the Guard many valuable trophies, and in this manner has greatly assisted in elevating the standard of marksmanship in the First Brigade.

Major Chew is chairman of the military committee of the House of Representatives. He was formerly a member of the First Troop, Philadelphia City Cavalry, which organization he entered [illegible] ember

5, 1888. On July 8, 1895, he was appointed aide-de-camp on the First Brigade Staff, and on June 9, 1897, was promoted to the position of brigade quartermaster with the rank of major. During the Spanish-American War, he was elected major of the Nineteenth Regiment Infantry, March 21, 1899; honorably discharged January 31, 1900; appointed ordnance officer First Brigade Staff, February 6, 1900.

LIEUT. COLONEL E. V. D. SELDEN

Lieutenant-Colonel E. V. D. Selden, Division I. R. P., is one of the best known officers in the service and is greatly interested in the welfare of the Guard, particularly in the Department of Rifle Practice. Colonel Selden was born in Pittsburg, where his father was a lawyer of prominence. In 1888, he was appointed quartermaster of the Sixteenth Infantry by Colonel W. J. Hulings, serving in that capacity until 1895 when he resigned. In 1898 he assisted in organizing the Provisional Guard, which took the place of the organizations then in the U. S. Volunteer Service. He was elected colonel of the Twenty-first Infantry, which was acknowledged to be one of the finest regiments ever recruited in the State of Pennsylvania. He was in command of the same until its final muster out in 1899. In 1900, he was appointed by Major General Charles Miller as Division Inspector of Rifle Practice with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

Colonel Selden is a member of the Pennsylvania Society of Founders and Patriots of America, Pennsylvania Society of Colonial Wars, and the Society of the Sons of the Revolution. His oldest brother, George DeV. Selden, who served on the staff of General James H. Lane as Lieutenant of Engineers, in 1861, when he was but seventeen years of age, did considerable duty in the troublesome times in Missouri. He was afterwards commissioned second lieutenant in the Second U. S. Cavalry, serving with his regiment at Gettysburg, July 3rd, and was killed in the last day's fight.

Colonel Selden is a resident of Oil City, where he is largely interested in the Crystal Oil Works. In the early part of his life, he resided and was educated in Philadelphia.

COLONEL FRANK K. PATTERSON

Colonel Frank K. Patterson, General Inspector of Rifle Practice, is a veteran of the Civil War and has devoted the greater part of his life to the National Guard of Pennsylvania. He was born in Allegheny County, Pennsylvania, April 19, 1848, and remained on his father's farm and attended the public school until January, 1864, when he enlisted in Light Battery H, Third Pennsylvania Artillery, serving with that organization until the close of the war.

In 1870 his love for the military again asserted itself and he enlisted as a private in Company H, Fourteenth Regiment, serving with that regiment until 1873 when he was appointed aide-de-camp, with the rank of captain, on the staff of General Charles Miller. He was transferred from the staff of General Miller to that of General Harry White, who commanded the Ninth Division, and for a time acted as adjutant general, with the rank of major. After the Pittsburg riots, he was mustered out with that command upon the reorganization of the Guard. When General John A. Wiley was appointed commander of the Second Brigade he offered Colonel Patterson the position of Inspector of Rifle Practice with the rank of major, which he accepted and filled with great credit. He afterward succeeded Major Hazlett as Ordnance Officer, remaining in that position until the Spanish-American War, when he went to Mt. Gretna and greatly assisted in mustering our troops into the U. S. service. On the organization of the new Guard, Colonel Patterson was appointed Ordnance Officer on the staff of General Charles Miller, until the election of Governor William A. Stone when he was tendered the position of General Inspector of Rifle Practice. He has always been an active worker in the Guard and participated in the service at Johnstown, Mt. Pleasant, Homestead and Punxsutawney. In his present position of chief of the Department of Rifle Practice his services have been invaluable.

In civil life, Colonel Patterson is engaged in the fire insurance business, being a special agent of the Royal Insurance Company for western Pennsylvania, with headquarters at Pittsburg.

MAJOR WILLIAM W. INGLIS

Major William W. Inglis, Ordnance Officer and Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice, Third Brigade, although comparatively a young man, has been connected with the Guard for a great many years. He is thoroughly devoted to the service and to his department. He enlisted in Company D, Thirteenth Infantry, May 9, 1892; was appointed corporal Dec. 15, 1893; sergeant, May 10, 1895; first sergeant, July 12, 1895; second lieutenant, May 12, 1897; first lieutenant, Aug. 20, 1897; captain and aid-de-camp on Third Brigade Staff, June 27, 1899; promoted to ordnance officer, Third Brigade Staff, March 9, 1901. During the Spanish-American War he was first lieutenant of Company D, Thirteenth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and was mustered out with the regiment, March 11, 1899.

MAJOR LEWIS T. BROWN

Major Lewis T. Brown, Ordnance Officer and Acting Inspector of Rifle Practice of the Second Brigade, is another popular and efficient veteran officer in the National Guard untiring in his efforts to promote rifle practice. His State service commenced as a private in the Duquesne Grays in 1870. He was commissioned first lieutenant of Company B, Eighteenth Regiment Infantry, April 19, 1872; captain, March 28, 1873; resigned, January 6, 1876; re-elected captain of the same company, May 22, 1879. After leaving the infantry service, in 1881, he connected himself with Hampton Battery "B;" was commissioned first lieutenant, Nov. 26, 1888; re-elected, December 11, 1893; retired from the artillery branch, May 11, 1896. He was appointed Ordnance Officer of the Second Brigade April 24, 1899, and ordered to report to General Wiley, July 11, 1900.

On Sept. 3, 1861, Major Brown enlisted as a private in Company M, 102d Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry; re-enlisted June, 1863, 102d Regiment Pennsylvania Volunteers; transferred to 2nd U. S. Cavalry May, 1864; mustered out at Washington, D. C. October, 1866.

In civil life Major Brown is one of the general superintendents of the Carnegie Steel Company.

The Editor, Chas. J. Hendler, Captain, Third Infantry, takes this opportunity of thanking the several gentlemen who so kindly interested themselves in this issue; it is the purpose of this Journal to promote through its columns, the best interests of the Guard in Rifle practice.

We regret the delay in issuing this number, but the completeness of the work, we hope, will demonstrate the cause of delay and excuse same.
